UPCOMING PROGRAMS

Meetings are held on the second Tuesday of the month 10:00 a.m. - 12:00 at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 3474 W. Southern St., Lecanto.

Guests are always welcome to attend.

October 11 – "Tracing Your Colonial New England Ancestors" – The speakers, Jim and Terry Willard, have taught a variety of genealogy and computer classes at the Villages Lifelong Learning College and have published over 40 articles in Ancestry Magazine. They will conduct a workshop which will focus on research materials that are available, both the old (such as the New England Historic Genealogical Society Register) and the new (such as americanancestors.com), and how to use these materials to discover your colonial "New England connection."

November 8 - "How to Reopen and Work a Genealogical Cold Case" -

The speaker, Lisa Louise Cooke is the Producer and Host of the Genealogy Gems Podcast, an online genealogy audio show at www.GenealogyGems.com She is the author of the books Genealogy Gems: Ultimate Research Strategies and The Genealogist's Google Toolbox, and the Google Earth for Genealogy DVD series, an international conference speaker, and writer for Family Tree Magazine.

In this vital session she will talk about how to become a genealogical detective. You'll learn to track ancestors like a criminal cold case detective, sniffing out holes in your research and getting missing information on the record with cutting edge technology.

December - NO MEETING - Happy Holidays

Notes from the President

Mary Ann Machonkin

Every year we have a seminar in February and invite a guest speaker to give three presentations. Our board members have been busy planning the next seminar. Because everyone seemed to be very pleased with last year's speaker, Drew Smith, we decided to invite him back again. We chose February 18, 2017 as the date for the seminar and fortunately Drew is free on that date to return as our seminar speaker.

So mark your calendars for February 18. As always we will need volunteers to help with seminar preparations and cleanup.

Early Irish Marriage Index Reaches 80,000 Records

Dick Eastman · July 20, 2016

The following announcement was written by the folks at the Irish Genealogical Research Society:

The Irish Genealogical Research Society's Early Irish Marriage Index has now been updated, with several thousand more records being added, all noted from obscure and underused sources. The database now holds reference to more than 80,000 marriages.

Combining the names of brides, grooms with the various relatives mentioned in the database, the Marriage Index now notes almost 177,000 named individuals. A good many of the latest batch were extrapolated from Index of Nuns, a CD publication in 2015 by the Catholic Family History Society, which notes biographical information for about 14,000 nuns, many of them from Ireland. For many, their date of birth and parents' names are recorded, allowing for an approximation of the year by which their parents had married. You can search the updated Marriage Index by going to www.irishancestors.ie An update to the Death Index was launched at the end of June. An update to the Birth Index will be launched in August.

GenTeam Adds Records from the Old Austro-Hungarian Empire

Dick Eastman · July 19, 2016

The collection currently contains 14,409,435 entries and will be continually updated. GenTeam recently added:

- Vienna: index of Catholic baptisms in Vienna for the years 1584-1915 – approximately 36,000 new entries
- Vienna: index of Catholic deaths in Vienna approximately 53,000 new entries
- Churchbook Registry-Indices of Lower Austria, Upper Austria, Burgenland, Tirol and Poland – approximately 111,000 new entries

The Following Announcements Were Written by Findmypast.com:

United States Naturalization Petitions

United States Naturalization Petitions contains more than 7.8 million records spanning the years 1905 to 1950. The collection currently covers four states: Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania, and allows you to discover when and where your immigrant ancestor was born, how old they were when they first crossed the Atlantic and their port of entry.

Images of the original documents may even include a photograph of your ancestor.

US Passport Applications and Indexes

Discover when, where, and why your ancestors travelled with over 800,000 US Passport Application records. Applications may also include a physical description, your ancestor's occupation, residence, naturalization details, the name of their spouse, date of birth and place of birth.

The collection has been compiled from the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) collection M1490. Images of the original documents are included and may reveal additional details of your ancestor's citizenship, such as when and from where they immigrated, by what means they arrived in the United States, and when they were naturalized. For those born in the United States, you may learn details of their fathers' naturalization such as their full name, birthplace, and date and place of emigration. Additional details were also recorded such as the applicant's eye color as well as descriptions of their mouth, nose, forehead, chin, complexion, face, and hair color. Earlier passport applications, from 1795 for example contain fewer details. However, they would still include name, age, and physical description.

Free Access to FindMyPast.com in FHC

Get free access to the database FindMyPast.com in the Family History Center at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. This database now has U.S. naturalization petitions and U.S. passport applications. FHC hours are: Tues. & Wed. 9 – 4; Thur. 9 – 12.

Important Membership Renewal Notice

We hope you all had a nice summer. It is now time to renew your genealogy society membership for another year. The annual fee is still $15 per person and $20 per family - a great bargain considering what you get in return: accomplished speakers giving presentation on a wide range of topics, four newsletters during the year, and a website full of great links and useful information.

An Application Form may be found on the inside of the back page (Page 7) of this newsletter).

Please fill out the form even if you are renewing your membership.

Library Report By Jamie Johnson, Library Chair

The following are the latest books given by the genealogy society to the Lakes Region Library. These books are located in the Genealogy Section of the Lakes Region Library on Druid St. in Inverness. You may request a book to be sent to the Library nearest you.

Trace Your German Roots Online, A Complete Guide to German Genealogy Websites

By James M. Beidler, GEN 929.1 BEI (207 pages)

The book is divided into three parts.

Part One: German Genealogy Basics, provides some basic information about German research and contains a section explaining how to use Google to translate a web page that appears in the German language. This section also provides information on untangling German place names and surnames.

Part Two: Top German Genealogy Websites, explains how to use familysearch.org, ancestry.com, myheritage.com as well as several other sites to research German records.

Part Three: Answers to Your Research Questions, provides information to help you track your German ancestors to this country. There is historical information and hints for churches, organizations, and archives that have German information, maps of German that show the place name changes over the years, and a chart that lists a number of websites you can use to obtain more information about a number of topics including the German language, geography, immigration, genealogical and historical societies, archives and churches, and newspapers and publications.

Organize Your Genealogy: Strategies and Solutions for Every Researcher

By Drew Smith, GEN 929.1072 SMI (239 pages)

This book provides you with the information you need to keep your genealogy research organized by using the latest tech tools and genealogy software to organize your research plan, workspace, and family-history finds. You will learn how to organize your time and resources, including how to set goals and objectives, determine workable research questions, sort paper and digital documents, keep track of physical and online correspondence, and prepare for a research trip.

The book contains examples of documents and equipment that will help you get organized and suggestions for filing your documents on your computer and creating genealogy reports for your own use and to share with family. The book also contains a number of easy-to-use checklists and worksheets to help in your research and organization of your records.

Whether you are just starting with genealogy or are a seasoned researcher looking for a new or better way to organize all of the documents and photos that you have collected, this guide will provide the information you need.

Tracing Your Huguenot Ancestors: A Guide for Family Historians

By Kathy Chater, *GEN 929.1072 CHA (*152 pages)

The Huguenots were French Protestants who, due to religious persecution, were forced to flee France to other countries in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Some refugees went directly to North America, while others stayed for a while in Great Britain, the Netherlands or Germany before relocating to North America, the West Indies, South Africa and Australia.

This book begins with a history of the Huguenots with a map showing the ancient provinces of France and a timeline of events in their history. The author focuses first on the communities within Great Britain and Ireland and provides a detailed research plan for finding and searching records in those areas.

The chapter on specific resources addresses using records of denization and naturalization, Huguenot church records, school records, and other records not usually high on the priority list for researchers.

The closing chapters of the book address how to research Huguenot communities within other European countries and the rest of the world including North America. There is a detailed bibliography that lists other books and publications that would be of interest to researchers and a listing of of all titles in the Huguenot Society Quarto Series, published by the Huguenot Society of Great Britain and Ireland.

The book ends with a list of addresses and websites throughout the world that would be of interest to anyone researching their Huguenot ancestors.

The Family Tree Polish, Czech And Slovak Genealogy Guide: How to Trace Your Family Tree in Eastern Europe

By Lisa A. Alzo, GEN 929.1 ALZ (239 pages)

This is an in-depth book that gives you all of the information you need to research your Polish, Czech or Slovak roots. The author spent years researching her own roots in those areas and she is sharing what she learned.

You will learn how to identify your immigrant ancestors and locate their town of origin using the provided timelines of Polish, Czech and Slovak immigration to America. The book contains a history of Poland and the Czech and Slovak Republics complete with maps of the regions and histories of the areas. There is a discussion of surnames and naming patterns and information on available vital records, military records, census records, and other available records and how to search those records. In the book the author even explains the different languages in these regions and provides alphabets and words you may find in your research in these areas.

Toward the end of the book the author lists where to go for available records, websites and publications that can be used in your research and sample letters for use in requesting records from Poland, the Czech Republic and Slovakia.

The book contains a number of maps, charts, samples of documents and the author even addresses methods you can use to overcome your research roadblocks.
